his Report has been popular since the 1960s. This report argues that, despite the existence of this model, many UK organisations are questioning the appropriateness of their training evaluation methods. The report critically examines the Kirkpatrick model and compares it with other training evaluation models. A model of the learning process is developed to ...

Training Evaluation: Beyond Kirkpatrick - Training Industry

In this review, we look critically at the Kirkpatrick model and compare it to others. We explore what these models might imply about the process of learning and changing behaviour, and we also review some of the research evidence on training evaluation that throws light on issues associated with evaluating at different levels.
