The three short pieces in Jodi Picoult's "Leaving Home" all deal with loss of one kind or another. The first story is called "Weights and Measures". This one I found to be a very sad story with a strange ending, but as the reader gets to know the characters of Abe and Sarah, the ending makes sense.

Leaving Home brings together three previously published short pieces, each dealing with a variation on the theme of leaving home. The first, Weights and Measures, deals with the tragic loss of a child; the second is a

The pieces are quite different - one a short story about the greatest loss imaginable; one a non-fiction letter I wrote my son as he went off to college, and one a story about a mother who finally takes the vacation all of us mothers deserve. The thread that connects them? They are all variations of leaving home. I hope you enjoy them!
