This mega-bundle contains: Spanking The Maid: The Complete Trilogy The Lady Submits Punishing the Serving Girl The Disgrace Of Lady Daring Her Sinful Punishment In The Dungeon Of Dorian Gray Little Lily Loses Her Innocence ~~~~~ PG Excerpt ~~~~~ She was so absorbed in her worrying that Mr. Miller's arrival took her by surprise. Mary gave a start as the door opened and she turned around to see the constable closing the door behind him. She turned back around quickly and fixed her eyes on her lap, ashamed and afraid. Mr. Miller didn't say anything as he walked over to his desk. The silence stretched for several moments and Mary had to suppress a shiver. She hated the uncertainty that came with the silence; she'd rather Mr. Miller yelled at her. Finally, Mr. Miller spoke. "Miss Bennett," he began, voice cold and crisp, "Mary. I do not know where to even begin." Mary took a shuddering breath. "I did not want to believe it when Mrs. Jones told me, you know. I thought she had got it wrong. After all, Mary Bennett is a sweet girl, a polite young lady from a good family; she was not raised to be a thief." Mr. Miller spoke at a slow, even pace. Mary dug her fingernails into her palms and bit her lip. She was dangerously close to crying. "I know that the death of your parents has been hard for you. I understand that these must be hard times for you, but I cannot even begin to put into words how disappointed I am in you. I expected so much more from you, Mary." Mary trembled on her seat. She tucked her chin against her chest, trying to make herself as small as possible. Whatever she had imagined Mr. Miller's disappointment would look and sound like earlier, the reality was a hundred times worse. "You should know by now that it is impossible to commit a crime without being caught in a small town such as this. You have disappointed me with your actions and your thoughtlessness." Mary bit back a sob; she had never felt this bad, she would give anything to make it stop, to get away from Mr. Miller's harsh words. "Now, your punishment. I should send you to court where you will be charged according to the law and your punishment will be decided by the judge. However, I am willing to give you another option." Mary straightened a bit in surprise. She hadn't even thought about going to court and the prospect seemed daunting. The judge might send her to jail and Mary knew that she wouldn't last a day. She was certain that whatever Mr. Miller had in mind was infinitely better than going to court. "You need to be disciplined for your actions. You need a firm hand.?? Mr. Miller paused and for the first time, Mary dared to look up. She still did not look Mr. Miller in the eye, but she let her gaze fall on his chest in anticipation.

This mega-bundle contains: Disciplined For Her Sins: The Complete Trilogy Hunted In the Woods And Taken Amelia's Punishment Taken At The Masquerade The Submission of Little Lady Sophia Ravishing The Flower-Girl Her Lesson In Discipline ~~~~~ PG Excerpt ~~~~~ The memories of that terrible day are forever branded onto my mind. My father had summoned me to his study. I had expected him to give me a gift or some other pleasant surprise for my birthday. But as soon as I laid eyes on him, I knew something was amiss. He was ashen faced and evasive, unable to look me in the eyes. Then he told me the horrible truth. ?Sophia, you are to be married,? he told me, his usually confident voice reduced to a guilty whisper. ?It is all arranged.? Naturally, I was taken aback. ?Married? But to whom Papa? I do not have a fianc , nor have any gentlemen pressed their suit. Surely you are joking?? I could see plainly that he was not, but still nurtured a hope that he was simply playing some kind of cruel trick on me. He shook his head. ?I would not joke about such a thing. Like I said, it is all arranged. The contract has been drawn up, the banns displayed. The wedding will take place one week from today.? I gaped at him aghast, entirely lost for words. After a few moments I composed myself and managed to croak. ?But to whom?? He looked me in the eyes, and I could tell from the pain and grief in his expression that his answer would not please me. ?Lord Morgan. Lord Sebastian Morgan.? I felt dizzy; my head began to spin and I almost fainted. Surely this couldn't be true? Perhaps I was dreaming, and all of this was a nightmare? Any moment now I would awake and return to a more pleasant reality. But this was not a dream. I was very much awake, and this was very real. ?But Papa, how?? I cried in anguish. ?I hardly know the man. We've never even been introduced. How can I marry a man who hasn't even proposed to me? How can I marry a man who I'm not in love with? A man with such a cruel and wicked reputation?? My father smiled bitterly, tears in his eyes. ?Love? I'm sorry to disappoint you Sophia, but not everyone can marry for love. Some marriages are born of practicality. Some of ambition. Love often does not enter into it at all.?

But at St Severine's, she is about to meet her match. ~~~~~ PG Excerpt ~~~~~ A horse-drawn carriage waited for me, and I was to sit alone inside of it - I was under strict orders to refrain from conversing with the coachman. My mother and father looked at me, the harsh expressions of last night melting away as they realized that this was happening - at eighteen years old, their precious daughter was being sent away. One last time, I decided to ask the question that they'd seemed uncomfortable with answering. "Where am I going?" My father heaved a sigh as the coachman came to retrieve my suitcase and put it in the boot of the carriage. Seeing as there was no turning back now, he decided to explain my fate to me, for which I was immensely thankful. "We're sending you to Saint Severine's School for Turbulent Young Ladies. You'll attend for three years, after which the faculty will send you back home to us. If you work hard enough, you might be able to come back even earlier." He explained, his eyebrows furrowing in a guilty fashion that made me somewhat nervous. "What am I going to learn there?" My father looked down at his feet briefly, before shifting his gaze over to my mother. She bit her lip worriedly as she looked at me - I knew that this school was not going to be a pleasant experience for me, and the fact that my parents deemed it acceptable to send me there was infuriating. I frowned, muttering my goodbyes. My parents saw me off with as much empathy and emotion as they could muster, and I climbed into the carriage with the utmost reluctance. The coachman took his seat at the front of the carriage, and suddenly, we were off. I closed my eyes, willing myself to sleep - I knew that this ride was going to be a long one.

Selena is eighteen, and is already wed. But she is simply too shy to perform her wifely duties. In frustration, her husband sends her to St Severine's. ~~~~~ PG Excerpt ~~~~~ Upon entering the building itself, my eyes were instantly assaulted by the absolute perversion of it all. The halls were flooded with girls like Elizabeth - girls with ample chests, girls who wore their skirts far too high, girls whose brassieres were visible through their small blouses. It was too much for my delicate sensibilities - I had to avert my eyes. Elizabeth giggled, noticing my obvious discomfort. She led me up a flight of stairs, and I marveled at the fact that even though she was naught three steps ahead of me, I could still catch glimpses of her panties. It seemed wrong, somehow. "Don't worry, Selena. You'll get used to the way things work around her in no time!" She insisted, though I wasn't exactly inclined to believe her. "The uniforms are a bit unique, sure - and so are the punishments. But it's really a lovely school, trust me on that. You're sure to have a fulfilling experience here!" Elizabeth chattered away about how lovely St. Severine's was, but my brain was still stuck on that one word - punishment. So this boarding school had unique punishments, so unique that Elizabeth felt they were worthy of mention? In most schools, you had to write lines, complete extra work...or, in the worst cases, your hands were slapping with a ruler.

Penny is a young maidservant, innocent and pure. But her innocence is soon to be corrupted... Her Master, Lord Wiltshire is a known rake and scoundrel, and when it comes to sweet little maids like Penny, he simply cannot resist his base desires. Urged on his wife, the wicked and lustful Lady Wiltshire, he debauches pretty little Penny in front of his dinner guests - who are soon clamoring to join in the fun! Penny knows she must serve and obey her master, and serve she does, as he and the others have their wicked way with her. ~~~~~ PG Excerpt ~~~~~ Remembering her quick induction to the service, Penny went to Lady Wiltshire first. The prim woman held up her glass and didn't acknowledge the lowly maid as she poured her glass like she had been instructed. Next, Penny attended to the guests; the army captain who looked down the front of her corset whenever he could; the tanned man, Henry, that stroked his moustache as he lounged in his seat; and finally, James Hollington, Lord Wiltshire's oldest friend. When Penny reached Hollington, he didn't hold his glass up. She faltered for the briefest of seconds, reaching forward to pour the wine directly into his glass when the man moved his arm to snatch for the glass. Everything happened in slow motion. The dark liquid splashed out of the wine bottle, colliding with Hollington's pearly white shirt, staining the fabric like blood would a wound. He looked down, Lady Wiltshire gasped and Penny knew she'd just earned herself her very first beating. The rest of the servants had disappeared, leaving the poor young maid under the sharp gaze of the dinner guests and her master and mistress.

Lord Augustus Ravenwood likes his women to be subservient, and he likes to share them. He and his manservant, Soames, like nothing more to despoil innocence and debase virtue. And now, they have a perfect opportunity.... Gloria is a farmgirl, eighteen, and pure. But not for long - Lord Ravenwood and Soames intend to have their wicked way with her - hard, fast and without protection! ~~~~~ PG Excerpt ~~~~~ ?And what is your name, my dear.? ?G-Gloria,? she stuttered nervously. I frowned and addressed her sternly. ?Gloria, you will address me as 'Milord,' do you understand? If you omit my title again I shall have to put you over my knee and spank you.? She blushed a deep red, her eyes fixed on the ground. ?Yes, Milord.? I nodded. ?Good. Tell me a little of your life, Gloria.? She looked surprised at such a request, but a glance at my face showed that I was in earnest. ?T-there is very little to tell, Milord. I was born here on your estate, and I have lived my whole life here. My father is a good man, although he sometime drinks a little too much. My mother died a year ago of the smallpox. I have no brother or sisters, though I wish I did. I have a little kitten who I have named Tabby.? In truth, her life story was rather tedious. I doubt she had many stories to tell. Perhaps it was time to expand her experience of the world.

First published in 1979. This book studies the social outlook which historians today call paternalism. It was an ideology which informed social attitudes at all levels of society and expressed itself in countless ways. In this work, David Roberts provides a comprehensive examination of the revival, amplification, and transformation of the ideals of paternalism as a social remedy in the Early Victorian Period. This title will be of interest to students of history.

Step into the perfumed parlors of the Everleigh Club, the most famous brothel in American history—and the catalyst for a culture war that rocked the nation. Operating in Chicago's notorious Levee district at the dawn of the last century, the Club's proprietors, two aristocratic sisters named Minna and Ada Everleigh, welcomed moguls and actors, senators and athletes, foreign dignitaries and literary icons, into their stately double mansion, where thirty stunning Everleigh "butterflies" awaited their arrival. Courtesans named Doll, Suzy Poon Tang, and Brick Top devoured raw meat to the delight of Prince Henry of Prussia and recited poetry for Theodore Dreiser. Whereas lesser madams pocketed most of a harlot's earnings and kept a "whipper" on staff to mete out discipline, the Everleighs made sure their girls dined on gourmet food, were examined by an honest physician, and even tutored in the literature of Balzac. Not everyone appreciated the sisters' attempts to elevate the industry. Rival Levee madams hatched numerous schemes to ruin the Everleighs, including an attempt to frame them for the death of department store heir Marshall Field, Jr. But the sisters' most daunting foes were the Progressive Era reformers, who sent the entire country into a frenzy with lurid tales of "white slavery"—the allegedly rampant practice of kidnapping young girls and forcing them into brothels. This furor shaped America's sexual culture and had repercussions all the way to the White House, including the formation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. With a cast of characters that includes Jack Johnson, John Barrymore, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., William Howard Taft, "Hinky Dink" Kenna, and Al Capone, Sin in the Second City is Karen Abbott's colorful, nuanced portrait of the iconic Everleigh sisters, their world-famous Club, and the perennial clash between our nation's hedonistic impulses and Puritanical roots. Culminating in a dramatic last stand between brothel keepers and crusading reformers, Sin in the Second City offers a vivid snapshot of America's journey from Victorian-era propriety to twentieth-century modernity. Visit www.sininthesecondcity.com to learn more! "Delicious" Abbott describes the Levee's characters in such detail that it's easy to mistake this meticulously researched history for literary fiction. "New York Times Book Review" Described with scrupulous concern for historical accuracy—an immensely readable book. "Joseph Epstein, The Wall Street Journal" Assiduously researched—even this book's minutiae makes for good storytelling. "Janet Maslin, The New York Times" Karen Abbott has pioneered sizzle history in this satisfyingly lurid tale. Change the hemlines, add 100 years, and the book could be filed under current affairs. "USA Today" A rousing racy yarn. "Chicago Tribune" A colorful history of old Chicago that reads like a novel—a compelling and eloquent story. "The Atlanta Journal-Constitution" Gorgeously detailed. "New York Daily News" At last, a history book you can bring to the beach. "The Philadelphia Inquirer" Once upon a time, Chicago had a world class bordello called The Everleigh Club. Author Karen Abbott brings the opulent place and its raunchy era alive in a book that just might become this year's "The Devil in the White City." "Chicago Tribune Sunday Magazine (cover story)" As Abbott's delicious and exhaustively researched book makes vividly clear, the Everleigh Club was the Taj Mahal of bordellos. "Chicago Sun Times" The book is rich with details about a fast-and-loose Chicago of the early 20th century. Sin explores this world with gusto, throwing light on a booming city and exposing its shadows. "Time Out Chicago" [Abbott's] research enables the kind of vivid description à la fellow journalist Erik Larson's The Devil in the White City that make what could be a dry historic account an intriguing read." "Seattle Times" Abbott tells her story with just the right mix of relish and restraint, providing a piquant guide to a world of sexuality. "The Atlantic" A rollicking tale from a more vibrant time: history to a ragtime beat. "Kirkus Reviews" With gleaming prose and authoritative knowledge Abbott elucidates one of the most colorful periods in American history, and the result reads like the very best fiction. Sex, opulence, murder "What's not to love?" "Sara Gruen, author of Water for Elephants" A detailed and intimate portrait of the Ritz of brothels, the famed Everleigh Club of turn-of-the-century Chicago. Sisters Minna and Ada attracted the elites of the world to such glamorous chambers as the Room of 1,000 Mirrors, complete with a reflective floor. And isn't Minna's advice to her resident prostitutes worthy advice for us all: "Give, but give interestingly and with mystery." "Erik Larson, author of The Devil in the White City" Karen Abbott has combined bodice-ripping salaciousness with top-notch scholarship to produce a work more vivid than a Hollywood movie. "Melissa Fay Greene, author of There is No Me Without You" Sin in the Second City is a masterful history lesson, a harrowing biography, and - best of all - a superfun read. The Everleigh story closely follows the turns of American history like a little sister. I can't recommend this book loudly enough. "Darin Strauss, author of Chang and Eng" This is a story of debauchery and corruption, but it is also a story of sisterhood, and unerring devotion. Meticulously researched, and beautifully crafted, Sin in the Second City is an utterly captivating piece of history. "Julian Rubinstein, author of Ballad of the Whiskey Robber
